About
We are a startup company in the medical field. Our first product is a novel IOP-lowering medication. We are an exciting group of women who want to make a difference in the health of glaucoma patients. We all have PhDs and strong leadership skills. We could use an energetic intern to help our scientists in the lab perform important studies.

Intern roles and responsibilities
Our newest team member will work directly with our scientists to assist with 1) laboratory experiments 2) Processing data from experiments 3) Compiling data from experiments and 4) assisting with general laboratory duties.

Required qualifications
The intern must have an interest in pharmaceutical development. The intern must be able to accurately gather data from multiple sources and compile into report format. The intern must have experience in a biological laboratory and possess general laboratory skills.

Preferred skills
We would love to have an intern who has a background in both Chemistry and Biology. B.S or M.S in science is preferred.
